

ILLITERACY COST SHEEHAN $75,000. VOELPEN PLEDGE A LODGER'S GIFT.

AGED MAN SIGNED DEED HE COULD NOT READ.

Declares Col. Jacob Ruppert's Lawyer Led Him to Transfer His All.

By a decision handed down by Justice Steckler, of the Supreme Court, today, aged William Sheehan, who built beyond his capital on his leased land in Manhattanville, sees the result of a quarter century's efforts wiped out.

Sheehan is a character of Manhattanville. He can neither read nor write. Having secured land at One Hundred and Thirty-first street and Twelfth avenue, now under the shadow of the Riverside viaduct, on a thirty-year lease, he built a modest saloon and prospered.

From time to time he added to the original structure, borrowing money from Col. Jacob Ruppert, through Ruppert's lawyer, William Erbe, until finally he had difficulty in meeting calls for interest.

Seven years ago he assigned his interests in the property to Erbe, Erbe to assume the interest obligations. Recently he sued Erbe for construction of the assignment, claiming that Erbe had led him to suppose it was only an assignment of the rents for seven years and until his interest indefinitely to Col. Ruppert was liquidated.

Sheehan claimed that through his own illiteracy Erbe secured an equity worth not less than $75,000 for a mere song.

Col. Ruppert was a witness at the trial, but knew nothing of the transaction. Justice Steckler holds that the evidence does not convince him that old man Sheehan did not know exactly what he was doing. Judgment in favor of Erbe resulted.

2,200-VOLT SHOCK KILLS ELECTRICIAN.

ARCHIBOLD CARELESS IN ASTORIA POWER-HOUSE.

Does Not Turn Off Current While Repairing Switches.

While repairing a new switchboard at the power-house of the New York and Queens County Electric-Light and Power Company's plant, Franklin and Mills streets, Astoria, last night, Thos. Archibold, an electrician, of No. 215 East Thirty-first street, was instantly killed.

Archibold worked for the General Electric Company. He had installed the switchboard only a week ago. It got out of order and he was sent to fix it.

He was so careless that he did not turn off the power. He stood on a platform in front of it and called down to a helper to pass up to him a wire. As the man responded and Archibold leaned over to catch it, he touched with his head one of the live switches and fell over dead.

He is said to have received 2,200 volts. His body was removed to an undertaker's shop to await the action of the Coroner.

Archibold came here from Nashville, Tenn., about five years ago. His family is said to be of good standing there. He was forty-five years old and unmarried.

SHOCKED TO DEATH BY A LIVE WIRE.

RICE KILLED WHILE AT WORK ON STATEN ISLAND.

Foreman Tracy Badly Injured While Trying to Aid the Lineman.

Charles H. Rice, a lineman for the Hall Signal Company, was shocked to death this morning on Canal street, Stapleton, Staten Island, by contact with 2,400 volts of electricity. Marion Tracy, the foreman of the work, went to Rice's relief and was himself severely burned about the hands and arms.

Rice, who was twenty-five years old, and whose home was in Hamilton, Vt., was stretching a guard wire for the Staten Island Rapid Transit Company. The wire came in contact with a heavily charged power cable, transmitting the current to him. He fell dead in the street.

His body was sent to the Stapleton Morgue and Tracy returned to his home in Manhattan.

TO TEACH 'JACKSON WHITES'

Booker T. Washington Will Supply Instructors for Mountaineers.

(Special to The Evening World.)

HACKENSACK, N. J., March 25.—The Hohokus Board of Education has voted to build a schoolhouse in the Ramapo Mountains near Mahwah and to engage teachers from the Institute presided over by Booker T. Washington to teach the "Jackson Whites," who live there.

This race is a mix of Indian, negro and mountainer descendants of English soldiers who settled there after the Revolution.

British Officer goes to Japan.

(Special to The Evening World.)

HALIFAX, N. S., March 25.—Commander-in-Chief Nash, of the Royal Engineers, Canada, has been ordered to Esquimalt and Japan. He will make his headquarters at Esquimalt. Nature of mission to Japan is secret.

—

VOELPEN PLEDGE A LODGER'S GIFT.

MRS. MURRAY EXPLAINS AND IS RELEASED.

Neighbor of Murdered Woman May First Have Owned It.

Declares Col. Jacob Ruppert's Lawyer Led Him to Transfer His All.

WE REFUND

The Price of Vinol if It Does Not Give Satisfaction.

Our Faith in It Is Unbounded.

We know of no remedy that is more universally successful than Vinol.

Vinol is not by any means a cure-all. We do not wish any of our friends to believe for moment that we claim it to be.

We do wish all to know, however, that we enthusiastically endorse Vinol, because we still have investigated and know everything that it contains, and we know that the elements contained in Vinol have the power to do what we claim.

The main thing to which Vinol owes its merit is the medicinal elements in a highly concentrated state that have given to cod liver oil its reputation as a specific in all wasting diseases.

These same elements have been collected from the liver of the cod and have been freed from the obnoxious grease that made cod liver oil so unpopular, and dissolved in a delicious table wine, thus with the addition of a slight amount of iron, is all our Vinol is.

In all cases of chronic coughs bronchitis, severe colds, general debility, loss of appetite, all derangements of the stomach we recommend Vinol, additionally we offer to refund to any one the money they pay us for Vinol if they do not find it in every respect to their taste.

Poliomyelitis is one of the many letters we continually receive showing the enthusiasm felt by the taking of Vinol.

For the past year Dr. for the good Vinol has done my wife and children. The children had the measles and were left with a bad cough and my wife had a bad cold.

Two bottles of Vinol and my children are strong and well, and my wife says she feels better than she has for years.

W. E. HOLMES, 321 8th St., Monroe, Ind.

Captain Surprised.

Mrs. Murray professed great surprise at being taken in charge by a brother officer of her husband and Capt. Martens certainly was surprised when he learned that she was the wife of one of the men in his command. He explained to her that the pawnbroker knew that this ticket had been issued to the murderer and that the fact of its having turned up at this time was suspicious.

In case of accident, or my possession of the ticket, said Mrs. Murray.

Some time early last summer a man came into my house, I saw him with a severely cold, and do not even remember the name they gave. They stayed some time and paid me very little money.

When they left, I asked them for money.

The man said he had no money but that he had a pawn ticket he would give me. The ticket was better than one I had, so I took it.

I paid no attention to the name on the ticket, and almost forgot all about it until a few days ago, when I remembered that it ran out on March 27, 1 and I made up my mind to redeem the chain. I never connected the name on the ticket with the name of the woman in the saloon, but I have not seen the ticket and I never told him about it.

He has nothing to do with my running the house and renting the rooms.

Mrs. Murray Straightforward.

As Mrs. Murray told her story without hesitation, and as it fairly reasonable that she would try to get the chain if she knew anything about the Voelpen murderer, she was allowed to add a story that might account for Mrs. Murray's possession of the ticket.

He said that the chain had been brought to his place by one Emma

Steinmeier, a woman who worked for Voelpen.

The Steinmeier woman left the neighborhood soon after pawning the chain, and it may be that she did not turn it in next day to Capt. Martens.

It is possible that the chain was a

old pawn ticket it might have come into the possession of the man who

gave it to Mrs. Murray.

He said that the chain had been

brought to his place by one Emma

Steinmeier, a woman who worked for Voelpen.

The Steinmeier woman left the neighborhood soon after pawning the chain, and it may be that she did not turn it in next day to Capt. Martens.

It is possible that the chain was a

old pawn ticket it might have come

into the possession of the man who

gave it to Mrs. Murray.

He said that the chain had been

brought to his place by one Emma

Steinmeier, a woman who worked for Voelpen.

The Steinmeier woman left the neighborhood soon after pawning the chain, and it may be that she did not turn it in next day to Capt. Martens.

It is possible that the chain was a

old pawn ticket it might have come

into the possession of the man who

gave it to Mrs. Murray.

He said that the chain had been

brought to his place by one Emma

Steinmeier, a woman who worked for Voelpen.

The Steinmeier woman left the neighborhood soon after pawning the chain, and it may be that she did not turn it in next day to Capt. Martens.

It is possible that the chain was a

old pawn ticket it might have come

into the possession of the man who

gave it to Mrs. Murray.

He said that the chain had been

brought to his place by one Emma

Steinmeier, a woman who worked for Voelpen.

The Steinmeier woman left the neighborhood soon after pawning the chain, and it may be that she did not turn it in next day to Capt. Martens.

It is possible that the chain was a

old pawn ticket it might have come

into the possession of the man who

gave it to Mrs. Murray.

He said that the chain had been

brought to his place by one Emma

Steinmeier, a woman who worked for Voelpen.

The Steinmeier woman left the neighborhood soon after pawning the chain, and it may be that she did not turn it in next day to Capt. Martens.

It is possible that the chain was a

old pawn ticket it might have come

into the possession of the man who

gave it to Mrs. Murray.

He said that the chain had been

brought to his place by one Emma

Steinmeier, a woman who worked for Voelpen.

The Steinmeier woman left the neighborhood soon after pawning the chain, and it may be that she did not turn it in next day to Capt. Martens.

It is possible that the chain was a

old pawn ticket it might have come

into the possession of the man who

gave it to Mrs. Murray.

He said that the chain had been

brought to his place by one Emma

Steinmeier, a woman who worked for Voelpen.

The Steinmeier woman left the neighborhood soon after pawning the chain, and it may be that she did not turn it in next day to Capt. Martens.

It is possible that the chain was a

old pawn ticket it might have come

into the possession of the man who

gave it to Mrs. Murray.

He said that the chain had been

brought to his place by one Emma

Steinmeier, a woman who worked for Voelpen.

The Steinmeier woman left the neighborhood soon after pawning the chain, and it may be that she did not turn it in next day to Capt. Martens.

It is possible that the chain was a

old pawn ticket it might have come

into the possession of the man who

gave it to Mrs. Murray.

He said that the chain had been